I created the new Cover design for the flagship magazine of NTM, Brown Gold, and created the next several months of covers, four of which are shown to the left. I redesigned the masthead placing the name into a more realistic gold metal texture than the cartoonish drawn one found in the old version (shown below for comparison purposes) using Photoshop. Also, the covers were given a 3D effect with a backdrop derived from visual cultural elements of the tribesman shown in the portrait as well as highlighted in the main article of the magazine. The covers were imposed using QuarkExpress.
