New Tribes Mission Poster

This is a full color 17" x 23" poster used as a yearly calendar poster by supporters of the mission. The concept and copy was created by the artist, Sharon Mosely. The poster was laid out by me in Photoshop using a photograph of a tribal person which was then processed with painter effects. I created the room perspective from distorting textures within photoshop and applied 3D lighting effects to sell the picture as one taken within a 'high end' museum.

The poster was initially designed and formatted for the back cover of the NTM flagship magazine, Brown Gold. It had such a positive response from the readership that it was re-purposed as a calendar poster as seen to the left. The poster was entered into the national Xpedx Print Design Contest of 1997 and won honorable mention.
